A Virtual Workshop on Women's Leadership presented by Learning Omnivores

Unique Opportunity to Work with Leadership Expert Sally Helgesen

Named by Forbes as the premier expert on women's leadership, Sally draws on her work as an executive coach to help women identify and address the habits most likely to get in their way as they rise. She embeds the program in a clear framework that also emphasizes women's strengths and helps them to engage these strengths to gain strategic advantage. This virtual workshop is a unique opportunity for women leaders and aspiring leaders in education to be coached by Sally.

Take Away New Competencies and Tools

- An enhanced understanding of your strengths
- Clear-eyed recognition of your specific challenges
- An actionable template for addressing these challenges
- A proven means for strengthening your webs for support
- Tools for increasing your visibility and influence
- A program of action for engaging both male and female champions in your ongoing development

Using targeted questions, interactive exercises and vivid real-life examples that resonate and inspire, Sally helps participants identify the following habits that may hold them back and learn simple behavioral tweaks that can move them forward:

- Reluctance to claim your achievements
- Expecting others to spontaneously notice and reward your hard work
- Overvaluing expertise
- Building rather than leveraging relationships
- Failing to enlist allies from Day 1
- Putting your job before your career
- The perfection trap
- Minimizing or too much ruminating
- Letting your radar distract you
